Alan Wiederholt isn't bothered with the small amount of homework he has, for it has paid off in his second place win in the national Math Contest.

Having written the third place feature story in the Interscholastic League Press Conference, Carol Orr looks through a magazine to gather ideas for more prize winning stories.

Billy Schoppe and Kerry Stuckey start what would have been a beautiful morning by working diligently on Mr. Baker's American History test.

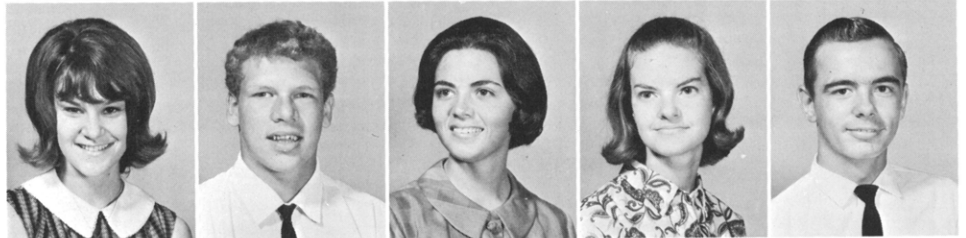

The crowded conditions pose no problem for Kerry as he and Mark Dennard, Brian Teague, Gordon Robinson, and Pat Wilson eat lunch in the cafeteria.
